THE HOLIDAY WIFE

Dear Ladies,

Hmm...how to wrap up this year - one that has been a series of fits and starts, encased in an ongoing hostage crisis known as "The Pandemic"?? By now we are more than ready to close that chapter but it keeps coming back like those five pounds you thought were gone permanently. ;)

Last December, I was considering the film we'll be having as our topic, but mass hopefulness was not even a glimmer in the cosmic eye. Survival, both physical and emotional were at the forefront as we "celebrated" the holidays sans our loved ones, in far too many cases.

This year, I think we have a fit. However I have taken the liberty of altering the title from THE CHRISTMAS WIFE to THE HOLIDAY WIFE because the theme of the story can apply to all of us. It is what one might consider a "quiet" thought provoking film that explores situations which many of us have experienced in one way or another and for which time and a healthy dose of hope and self preservation can lead to wonderful discoveries.

The movie is from 1988 and stars Julie Harris and Jason Robards, both superb actors who deliver mightily with understatement and poignancy.
